THE LOAN—THE LAST.

At this stage, says The Times, nearly five weeks of hard running have gained little more than a heady gain of 200,000,000.

momentum already gained and to carry the nation past the post "records" well beaten, the British are not the athletes of the financial world we well know them to be. We will cheer rather with cheering on the last lap of the race, and with the profound confidence that these last two days even more than an average additional scrips already received, we can be sure there is every reason to believe that the figures for the Loan—and we refer to the "new money" it will bring—Exchequer—are likely to surpass any previous forecasts made in well-in-

"FOR COMPLETE VIC

"There must be no peace with victory." That, says The Times, note of the statement which Sir I has made to French war correspondents to learn his views on the next struggle. We are as yet without authorised report of the actual British Commander-in-Chief, but, it is said, he has expressed his opinion which has reached us, and versions which have reached us, and in phrase, there can be no doubt of tenor of his views. Full of unbending determination to win at any cost the only person worth the winning, and penetrated by a conviction that it can be won, he fully reflects the temper and the policy of England and her Allies. There can be no doubt without complete victory, and this can be gained not merely by economic measures but by the infliction of defeat, palpable and unquestioned, in the field. But, while the President states that this will be the policy, it is not clear that he decision, he is careful to point out, does not necessarily mean it will be a year of peace. We hope that it will be an enemy forced to sue for peace. We uttermost to compel him to beg. We cannot beat him so entirely, he will crave for it on our terms. We shrink from carrying on the war. That, we are confident, is the wish of France, as it is ours.

GERMAN TROOPS SUBMARINES

Another American (writes the Correspondent of The Times), who in Holland from Germany in days—he comes from Frankfurt, is being live for a year and a half, that the Germans have great troops. Every German, he says, war. Unless a man is making his in the Army. No other work allowed. Invalid soldiers and taken the places of clerks, for German troops are now more than the beginning of the war, he says, said "my informant, very mot "frightfulness," and, he would be an unscrupulous lot if they were going to lose the war, praised when he came to Holland speaking of a very large number of submarines. That was only a big lie. From a friend who was in a position he had learned that there were no submarines. The Army was not necessary, though the civil population was suffering from insufficiency.

VERY REV. D. O'SULLIVAN.

The death occurred at St. Joseph's, Blackrock, yesterday of the Very Rev. Dr. Daniel O'Sullivan, C.M. For sixty years he had been engaged without interruption in active missionary work. He was born in Dublin in 1829. From the time he came to the priesthood in 1853 he worked for many years in Ireland, later in England and in Scotland. His last year he spent in Rome, where he died.

FR. OFFICIAL.—In the course of Monday, after a very violent bombardment, the German troops attacked with important effects the city of Vienna. They were able to gain a foothold at different points of the first line trenches after a very bitter struggle. A vigorous counter-attack by the Italians during the night enabled the greater part of the positions taken to be retaken. Yesterday, however, the heavy and continuous shelling of the Italian counter-attack was repulsed.

UNINTERED ALIENS.

Mr. JOYNSON-HICKS asked the Home Secretary to apply special measures to the uninterred aliens in this country. There were, he said, a number of Germans free and carrying on business in London. A dressmaker in Bond Street boasted of her freedom owing to influence in high quarters.

Mr. GEORGE DAVEY who was very inquisitively asked, was understood to state that the number of interred aliens was something over 50,000, and the number of uninterred aliens was something over 10,000. Since he had been in office it had been his duty to re-consider a good many exempted cases in the light of new facts, and in several cases he had felt bound to reverse the decision of the Alien Committee and intern the alien.

Mr. PRINGLE invited a statement from the Government with reference to the position of the mercantile marine.

Mr. JONATHAN BUELL having spoken, Mr. L. MURPHY said that the Controller of Shipping deemed it to be his duty to hope for the best and prepare for the worst. A very large amount of tonnage was now under construction, and the building of cargo vessels was being accelerated by every means possible, while passenger liners were being re-converted. It was estimated that there were 14,000 more men working in our shipyards than there were when the war broke out. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. GEORGE DAVEY said that the men of the mercantile marine, he told a story of a vessel which a few days ago by the engine, twenty-four only of the crew were saved, being exposed in open boats for ten hours in bitter weather, with waves running upon their backs. On arriving in London they immediately went to the office of the owners and engaged to go to sea again at the earliest opportunity. The men were concerned, the policy of terrorism had entirely failed. (Hear, hear.)

PHREASANTS AND TILLAGH.

The Irish Game Protection Association, Views. TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES. Sir,—No one with a stake in this country, or a desire to see the much improved state of the game for the future, can view with anything but sincere regret the application to Ireland of the regulation which you have reported that the Government have decided to adopt.

THE MERCHANT MARINE.

Mr. PRINGLE invited a statement from the Government with reference to the position of the mercantile marine.

Mr. JONATHAN BUELL having spoken, Mr. L. MURPHY said that the Controller of Shipping deemed it to be his duty to hope for the best and prepare for the worst. A very large amount of tonnage was now under construction, and the building of cargo vessels was being accelerated by every means possible.

GRAND JURIES BILL.

Mr. F. E. SMITH moved the second reading of the Grand Jurors Bill, which provides for the suspension of the services of Grand Jurors during the war, and until December 31st, 1917.

The Destinies of the Empire Depend upon our Children.

THE Duke of Wellington is reputed to have said that "The Battle of Waterloo was won upon the playing fields of Eton."

It is certainly true that the soldiers who will fight the Great Commercial and Professional War after the War—the British soldiers who will strive for the commercial supremacy of the world—will find their training ground in the great Public Schools of England.

It is the present duty of every man to help his country in this great crisis—it is none the less the duty of every man to prepare for the future—of every parent to equip his son with the best possible education available, so that he may be prepared to take his place mentally, physically, and commercially qualified to fight his Country's battles in the field of Commerce.

Equally—England looks to the parents of the younger generation of women—that the daughters shall also be qualified to fill that larger place in the destinies of the Empire which the great test of the universal war has demonstrated they can so capably fill.

You are asked to-day to bring forth your resources to help swell the great VICTORY WAR LOAN. You will do so gladly. By perspicacity and forethought you can in one act greatly augment your contributory effort to your country and at the same time take precautions and make provision for the proper education of your sons and daughters by giving them not only a splendid education, but also the innumerable social and other advantages inseparable from training in our great Public Schools.

Great is the cause to-day—as great to-morrow.

Call in the co-operation of the Eagle and British Dominions Insurance Companies. They will show you how to consummate this patriotic purpose.

Help for the War Loan—Provision for your sons and daughters of the Empire—for their education or for their business career.

Endow them with the fruits of your patriotic self-denial.

You have a boy, say five years of age. In ten years time he will be embarking upon his higher education, or perhaps entering business. It is your concern to anticipate these eventualities. At this time you are training every effort to help the War Loan. You also have to provide for your children's education.

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

RAILS SELLERS. TEXTILES GENERALLY GOOD.

DUBLIN, WEDNESDAY EVENING.

The pressure to realise securities to help forward subscriptions to the new War Loan, the list for which will close on 10th inst., was continued to-day in some directions, and hence the adverse price movements again established. There were, however, improvements in a few directions, and this tended to brighten the outlook generally, in the hope that when the pressure for realising prices is removed there may be more prospect of seeing an advance in quite a number of securities. The funds were small, with adverse changes of no great moment. Land Stocks were firm, but India 3 p.c. gave way. Furniture Stocks changed hands. Real estate still inactively offered at 60, or 10 points under last business done level. There were a few further declines established in the Home Railway market. Great Southern and Western turned dull and fell 1/2. Great Northern repeated 100, but the Calico Printers' Ord. were particularly good, and rose 1/2. Midland Great Western Ord. Stock shows no rally at 25. As regards Tramways, dealing was confined to Dublin United Ord., which gave way 1/2 to 7/8. 25s. 3d., and the Prof. 1/2 to 15s. 3d., while the Ord. were nominally 6d. higher at 22s. 3d. 3/4. Dunlop Rubber Shares rose 1/2 to 27s. 3d., and the Prof. 1/2 to 15s. 3d., while the Ord. were nominally 6d. higher at 22s. 3d. 3/4. Dunlop Rubber Shares rose 1/2 to 27s. 3d., and the Prof. 1/2 to 15s. 3d., while the Ord. were nominally 6d. higher at 22s. 3d. 3/4.

There were, however, improvements in a few directions, and this tended to brighten the outlook generally, in the hope that when the pressure for realising prices is removed there may be more prospect of seeing an advance in quite a number of securities. The funds were small, with adverse changes of no great moment. Land Stocks were firm, but India 3 p.c. gave way. Furniture Stocks changed hands. Real estate still inactively offered at 60, or 10 points under last business done level. There were a few further declines established in the Home Railway market. Great Southern and Western turned dull and fell 1/2. Great Northern repeated 100, but the Calico Printers' Ord. were particularly good, and rose 1/2. Midland Great Western Ord. Stock shows no rally at 25. As regards Tramways, dealing was confined to Dublin United Ord., which gave way 1/2 to 7/8. 25s. 3d., and the Prof. 1/2 to 15s. 3d., while the Ord. were nominally 6d. higher at 22s. 3d. 3/4. Dunlop Rubber Shares rose 1/2 to 27s. 3d., and the Prof. 1/2 to 15s. 3d., while the Ord. were nominally 6d. higher at 22s. 3d. 3/4.
